AT BANQUET BOARD

Farewell to Hon. W. O. Smith at The Hawaiian Hotel.

AN ASSEMBLY OF LEADING MEN

An Excellent Menu—Good Music and a Large Number of Felicitous Speeches.

The representative men of Honolulu met at a banquet in a veranda dining room of the Hawaiian hotel last evening to bid farewell to Hon. W. O. Smith, who is going to Washington in a few days as the representative of the National Capital of the Hawaiian Chamber of Commerce and of Hawaiian business interests generally. The host was Hon. Alexander Young, Minister of the interior; the guests were as follows:

Hon. W. O. Smith, M. Louisson, Hon. P. C. Jones, Hon. W. R. Castle, C. M. Cooke, Hon. L. A. Thurston, J. P. Cooke, Clive Davies, E. Suhr, C. Boite, Col. W. F. Allen, Minister Mott-Smith, T. R. Walker, Hon. Theo. Lansing, W. G. Irwin, Hon. W. N. Armstrong, Hon. Cecil Brown, E. D. Tenney, E. Norrie, Hon. W. F. Frear, E. Gear, F. A. Schaefer, John Ena, J. L. Kaulukou, President Dole, Hon. H. E. Cooper, Col. J. H. Fisher, Hon. F. M. Hatch, B. F. Dillingham, A. T. Atkinson, Walter G. Smith.

The tables presented a most charming sight. They were arranged with a single board crossed at each end by shorter ones. Bouquets, candles, cut flowers and leis were among the decorations and the China and cutlery shone like new. The host, Hon. Alexander Young sat at the middle of the table of the long table with President Dole on his right and Hon. W. O. Smith on his left. At Mr. Smith's left sat Mr. Kaulukou, Speaker of the House. The President of the Planter's Association, C. M. Cooke sat at the Waikiki end with Hon. L. A. Thurston and Hon. W. R. Castle on either hand. Mr. Schaefer at the Ewa end was flanked by Messrs. Frear and Hatch. The only absentees from the board among the invited guests were Hon. W. C. Wilder, President of the Senate and Mr. Alex. Robertson, who were unavoidably detained.

The service at the banquet, as is usually the case at the Hawaiian Hotel, was all that could be desired and the guests feasted as follows:

Eastern Oysters on Half Shell.
SOUP.
Consomme aux Epicurier.
HORS D'OEUVRES.
Radishes. Celery.
Anchovie Toast.
Stuffed Olives.
FISH.
Fillet Sole a la Diplome.
Potatoes on Surprise.
ENTREES.
Chicken Sautee a la Kapiolani.
Tenderloin Beef a la Financiere.
Green Peas.
Punch au Maraschino.
Roast.
Stuffed Turkey, Cranberry Sauce.
Asparagus.
Salad Panachee.
DESSERT.
Nesserote Pudding, Cream Sauce.
Chocolate Ice Cream.
Assorted Cakes.
Fruit. Cheese. Coffee.

THE TOASTS.

The first sentiment proposed by Mr. Young, who acted as toastmaster as well as host, was "The President of the United States," to which Hon. P. C. Jones, former Minister of Finance, was asked to respond. Mr. Jones made a short and interesting speech, which began with a humorous reference to the short notice he had of the invitation to speak. Mr. Jones and never met President McKinley, but he heard him speak on the tariff and believed him to be a true friend of this country and withal a typical American—a family man, a good citizen, a broad and wholesome publicist, best of all a Christian gentleman. I believe, said Mr. Jones, that he will exercise a fair policy towards Hawaii. What he does we shall have reason to endorse most heartily. [Applause.]

PRESIDENT DOLE.

The President spoke in his usual thoughtful and convincing vein on Hawaii and the Hawaiians. After some pleasant reminiscences of banquets gone before, he said that the branch of the Anglo-Saxon community established in these islands had earned a conspicuous place in the annals of the world for many good deeds, notably the establishment of civilization without driving the natives to the wall. Unlike some others, jealously referred to, our people had not fallen on their knees and then upon the aborigines. The Anglo-Saxons here and their foreign allies have made the Hawaiians what they are and are indebted in turn to them for confidence and help. As a result the Hawaiian community is the most advanced of all the dark races in the world. It should be our measure and duty to carry on the old policy of friendly co-operation and teach it to the new-comers who are identifying themselves with the present and future of Hawaii. The strangers are now within our gates. They are energetic, ambitious and unrestrained by our traditions. They may carry us off our feet; but I hope and trust that we shall be able to imbue them with our policy of justice to the native so that they will draw no color lines and adopt the Hawaiian as part of the social life of this country. Prolonged applause followed the President's manly and earnest words, which was repeated when Mr. Dole paid a high tribute to the character and ability of Mr. Smith especially as shown during the cholera epidemic, when that gentleman practically ran the Government.

THOMAS RAIN WALKER.

"The Commercial Interests of Hawaii" was a sentiment which was naturally the means of drawing out Mr. T. R. Walker, president of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Walker dwelt feelingly upon the growth of Hawaii during the past half-century. He remembered when the Islands boasted of a sugar output of 12,500 tons, which they had produced with difficulty. He also recalled how the business men had scoffed at the argument of those who were fighting the reciprocity bill on the ground that Hawaii would one day produce as much as 25,000 tons of sugar. We now produce 280,000 tons. We had, in the old days, an export trade of $1,000,000 annually, now we have ten times that. There was a time when one steam vessel answered for inter-island commerce; now they are twenty and they pitch in a head sea and roll in calm water ever more than the original one did. Mr. Walker's peroration had for its theme the high repute of our business community for honor and integrity, and this made the keynote of many of the speeches which followed. Like the preceding speaker and those who came after him, Mr. Walker had many pleasant things to say of the guest of the evening.

MR. C. M. COOKE.

"The Agricultural Interests of Hawaii" was responded to by the president of the Planter's Association, Mr. Cooke made a jocular reference to the time he and Hon. W. O. Smith were hoeing potatoes together at the Massachusetts College of Agriculture, and then, getting down to business, traced the growth of our export trade from its small beginnings—from 1867, when it amounted to about $1,000,000, to 1897, when it had become $15,000,000. We look, he said, to a shipment of over $60,000,000 one of these days and what take $25,000,000. But we have not yet diversified our industries enough. We should raise our own tobacco and make our own cigars. We are doing well with coffee; our honey is the best in the London market, and our orange are so much better than those of California that Claus Spreckels imports them from here for his own table. Hawaii, despite all this, is not raising enough staples. We could not fill a transport order the other day for 6,000 head of cabbages. There ought to be plenty of native turkeys here. It is a shame that we should get Thanksgiving turkeys from the Coast and pay $5 apiece for them. But we are getting

OTHER NEWS OF INTEREST

Signs of the Times in Various Parts of the World—Latest Cablegrams.

LONDON, Nov. 13, 4:30 a. m.—This morning's news from the seat of war in South Africa continues fairly satisfactory. The official dispatches are not very detailed with regard to the Belmont incident, which, except for the loss of Colonel Keith-Falconer, was not a very serious affair.

There are signs of greatly increased Boer activity in Natal and along the western frontier. All the dispatches tend to show that the British are holding out ably. Colonel Baden-Powell reports that all was well at Mafeking on November 6th. Ladysmith's latest date is November 9th. While nothing adverse is heard from the latter point, and confidence is felt in General White's ability, previous experience having shown that the Boer artillery is not very effective, it is beginning to be proved that the acquisition of artillery, which has destroyed the former mobility of the Boer forces, has also failed to give them any compensating advantage. On the contrary, the reverse is the case.

It is held here that if the Boers had not been hampered by the transport of heavy guns and their rescue from tight places, General Joubert might, ere this, have been in Pietermaritzburg. Unless the Boer heavy artillery justifies itself by reducing Ladysmith it will again hamper him in the eventual retreat from Natal, when General Buller sends the relieving force. It is believed that the Boer retreat will be made over the Drakensburg range into the Sontspansburg district, where preparation for provisioning and maintaining the Boers is said to have been made for the last stand, and where it will be difficult to dislodge them. Already it is rumored that they are in straits for food around Ladysmith and may, therefore, be obliged to abandon the siege.

Dispatches from Estcourt say it has been ascertained that the British have laid concrete beds for firing the Lyddite naval guns, showing that there is no foundation for the fear that the Lyddite ammunition at Ladysmith has been exhausted. It is also reported from the same quarter that some fires have been seen in Ladysmith, indicating that the Boer bombardment has been to some extent effective. A special dispatch from Cape Town confirms the earlier report that it was General Buller who ordered the British evacuation of Stormberg and Naauwpoort, as he considered the frontier line too weak and too much extended. It is understood, however, that Naauwpoort will be occupied again as soon as the advance from Queenstown is ordered.

Strong bids are being made by the Boers for the support of the Cape Dutch, but without much success, although it is believed that the Dutch

BOERS HELIOGRAPHING MESSAGES.

The heliograph is a late war device, consisting of a movable mirror that sends flashes of light corresponding to the Morse telegraphic alphabet. An artist of London Black and White sends his paper a sketch showing the Boers heliographing messages from one command to another in Natal.
